WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT (1794-1878)

William Cullen Bryant was born to Peter Bryant and Sarah Snell Bryant on 3 November 1794 in Massachusetts. Peter Bryant (1767-1820) was the son of Dr. Phillip Bryant (1732-1817) and Silence Howard Bryant (1738-1777). Sarah Snell Bryant was the daughter of Ebenezer Snell (1738-1813) and Sarah Packard Snell (1737-1813). Peter Bryant and Sarah Snell Bryant married on 28 October 1792. In addition to William Cullen Bryant their other children included Austin Bryant (1793-1866) who married Adeline Plummer Bryant (1801-1882), Cyrus Bryant (1798-1865) who married Julia Everett Bryant (1808-1875), John Howard Bryant (1807-1902) who married Harriett Wiswall (d. 1883), Peter "Arthur" Rush Bryant (1803-1883) who married Henrietta Plumber Bryant (1812-1895), and Sarah Snell Bryant Shaw (1802-1824) who married Dr. Samuel Shaw (1790-1870),

In 1799, the Bryant family moved to the home now named the William Cullen Bryant Homestead in Cummington, Massachusetts. Bryant's grandfather Ebenezer Snell had originally built the house in 1783.

Bryant married Frances Fairchild Bryant on 11 January 1821 in Great Barrington, Massachusetts. Frances Fairchild Bryant was born on 27 March 1797 in Great Barrington, to Zachariah Fairchild (d. 1814) and Mary Hannah Pope Fairchild (d. 1814). Frances Fairchild Bryant died on 27 July 1866 in Roslyn, New York.

Bryant and his wife raised two children Frances Bryant (1822-1893) and Julia Sands Bryant (1831-1907). Frances Bryant married abolitionist and journalist Parker Godwin (1816-1904) who wrote for the New York Evening Post, in 1842.

After attending Williams College for two years Bryant studied law privately with Judge Samuel Howe (1785-1828) of Worthington, Massachusetts and Congressman William Baylies (1776-1865) of Bridgewater, Massachusetts. Bryant was admitted to the bar in 1815 and practiced law in Plainfield, Massachusetts.

In 1821, Bryant was invited to address Harvard University's Phi Beta Kappa Society at the school's commencement. The poem he presented "The Ages" led to his first published book of poems.

With the help of the Sedgwick family of Stockbridge, Massachusetts, Bryant began his editorial career in 1825 as the editor of The New York Review in New York, New York. He then became Assistant Editor and later Editor-in-chief and part owner of the New York Evening Post. He remained the Editor-in-chief and partial owner from 1828 to 1878. He also became a member of the Free Soil Party, and later an active member of the Republican Party. He was an active supporter of Abraham Lincoln's presidential campaign and introduced Lincoln at Copper Union in New York on 27 February 1860.

In 1843 Bryant purchased a property in Roslyn Harbor, New York, which he named Cedarmere. He expanded the house and property throughout his life. In 1865, he repurchased his child home in Cummington, Massachusetts, which had been sold out of the family in 1835. Several of his poems were inspired by his home and the surrounding landscape in Cummington including "Lines on Revisiting the Country," "The Rivulet," and "Inscription for the Entrance to a Wood."

Bryant died in 1878 in New York due to complications from an accidental fall at a ceremony honoring the Italian patriot Giuseppe Mazzini at Central Park.

In 1875, Bryant transferred his childhood home to his daughter Julia Sands Bryant. After her death in Paris in 1907 the property passed Anna R. Fairchild (b. 1841). Anna R. Fairchild was the daughter of Egbert N. Fairchild (1802-1864) the brother of William Cullen Bryant's wife Frances Fairchild Bryant. In 1917 Anna R. Fairchild sold the Homestead to Bryant's granddaughter Minna Godwin Goddard (1846-1927). When Goddard died in 1927, she bequeathed the renamed William Cullen Bryant Homestead to The Trustees of Reservations. The Trustees purchased additional land in 1981. DESCRIPTION OF THE COLLECTION

The William Cullen Bryant Collection contains material relating to William Cullen Bryant, his extended family, colleagues, and his childhood home now known as the William Cullen Bryant Homestead. A significant portion of the collection was on loan to the Chapin Library at Williams College from 1981 to 2014. Staff at The Trustees of Reservations and the staff at the Chapin Library at Williams College created descriptions of items in this collection. The collection spans 1794 to 1926 with the bulk of the material created between 1845 to 1878. The collection is organized into three series: Correspondence; Other Papers; and Photographs, Copper Plates, & Artwork.

Series I, Correspondence, is organized into three subseries: Letters from William Cullen Bryant; Letters to William Cullen Bryant; and Other Family Letters. A note is made in the finding aid for letters that are included or mentioned in The Letters of William Cullen Bryant edited by William Cullen Bryant II and Thomas G. Voss (New York: Fordham University Press, 1975-1992).

The first subseries, Letters from William Cullen Bryant, includes 19 letters from Bryant to his brother, John Howard Bryant (1807-1902), from 1833 to 1878; and 39 letters (from 1865 to 1878) from Bryant to the caretaker of the Bryant Homestead, Francis Howland Dawes (1819-1893) regarding upkeep of the Homestead. This subseries also contains a letter to Dawes' daughter, Mary Eugenia Bradley Dawes Warner (1859-1944), regarding her education; two letters to Lucius Foot regarding trees at the Bryant Homestead; one letter regarding dishes and utensils for the Bryant Homestead that Bryant sent to Clark Ward Mitchell (1818-1892), the husband of Bryant's niece, Ellen Theresa Shaw Mitchell (1822-1891); and two letters to George B. Cline (1832-1898), who was the caretaker of Cedarmere, Bryant's house in Roslyn, New York. In addition, there are two letters (one a fragment) to Bryant's friend, Leonice Marston Sampson Moulton (1811-1897); a letter from Bryant to Rev. Joseph Alden (1807-1885) regarding Alden's Studies in Bryant: A Text-Book, and Bryant's work on the preface; and a letter to Albert G. Browne (1835-1891) regarding politics.

The second subseries, Letters to William Cullen Bryant, consist of letters to Bryant from individuals, letters from organizations, and invoices. The letters from individuals include a letter from Bryant's daughter, Frances Bryant Godwin (1822-1893) regarding her stay in Dresden, Germany in 1867. There is a note from the doctor who was caring for Bryant's wife, Frances Fairchild Bryant (1797-1866) before her death on July 27, 1866; the note is probably from July 19, 1866. There are also two letters from Isaac Henderson, Bryant's business partner and manager at the New-York Evening Post. One letter is about matters at the Post; the other is regarding a house on West Sixteenth Street in Manhattan that Henderson bought and furnished in Bryant's name. There is a letter from Eliza Maria Judkins (1809-1887) on the back of a color drawing of a leaf. Bryant's response to her was published in The Letters of William Cullen Bryant as entry #1889. There are also two fan letters and a number of fragments of letters from unidentified senders.

Letters from organizations includes letters from university literary societies electing Bryant as an honorary member.

Invoices includes receipts for goods and services including fruit trees. Many of the invoices are written by Bryant.

The third subseries, Other Family Letters, includes letters from Bryant's daughter, Frances Bryant Godwin (1822-1893) and from her husband, Parke Godwin (1816-1904). The former's letters are to her mother, Frances Fairchild Bryant (1797-1866); her sister, Julia Sands Bryant (1831-1907); her daughter, Minna Godwin Goddard (1846-1927); and her husband, Parke Godwin (1816-1904). The latter's letters are to his mother-in-law, Frances Fairchild Bryant (1797-1866); his sister-in-law, Julia Sands Bryant (1831-1907); his daughter, Minna Godwin Goddard (1846-1927); his son, Bryant Godwin (1848-1894); and his wife, Frances Bryant Godwin (1822-1893).

There is also a letterbook that contains copies of letters that Bryant's wife, Frances Fairchild Bryant (1797-1866) sent during their 1834-1836 trip to Europe. The letters are from February 1835 to March 1836. There is one letter to her sister, Mina Fairchild Hopkins (1787-1862); one to Bryant's brother, John Howard Bryant (1807-1902); and three to Bryant himself after he returned to the United States. There are also four letters to friends (Elmira Waring Leggett, Mrs. Morton, and two unidentified people).

There are a few other letters between family members, including a letter to Bryant's brother, John Howard Bryant (1807-1902), about his farm that is probably from Bryant's uncle, Thomas Snell (1774-1862).

Series II, Other Papers, is organized into two subseries: William Cullen Bryant, and Other People. The first subseries, William Cullen Bryant, is organized into Writings, Personal Papers, Financial Records, Pamphlets, Certificates, Testimonials, Locks of Hair, Articles about Bryant, and the Centennial of the Birth of Bryant.

Writings contains the title for "The Flood of Years" in Bryant's hand; two drafts (in Bryant's hand) of his poem, "Robert of Lincoln"; and a calligraphic version of Bryant's remarks at the laying of the cornerstone for the National Academy of Design in 1863. In addition, there are two travel diaries regarding Bryant's trips to Europe, one from 1834 to 1836, and the other in 1849. Both diaries include notes on purchases that Bryant and his family made during the trips.

Personal Papers contains flyers and writings from organizations relating to Bryant. Financial Records include an 1872 check from G.P. Putnam & Sons to Bryant that he endorsed on the back and account books kept by Bryant. Pamphlets include annual reports from organizations supported by Bryant. Certificates include Bryant's 1849 passport, a membership certificate to the Bunker Hill Monument Association, and resolutions by literary associations regarding Bryant's death in 1878. Testimonials includes details about a commemorative vase to be put in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, New York to celebrate Bryant.

Locks of Hair contain five locks of William Cullen Bryant's hair. Three are labeled with dates, and two can be dated approximately based on the color of the hair. The lock from 1852 has a note stating that the hair was cut by his wife, Frances Fairchild Bryant (1797-1866). Two locks have notes stating that they were cut for his daughter, Frances Bryant Godwin (1822-1893).

Articles about William Cullen Bryant contain clippings from newspapers and magazines from 1842 to 1926 regarding Bryant's work, life, and death.

Centennial of the Birth of William Cullen Bryant contains newspaper clippings regarding the 1894 celebration of the centennial of Bryant's birth. There are also two copies of the program for the event that took place in Cummington, Massachusetts on 16 August 1894.

The second subseries, Other People, consist of materials relating to people other than Bryant. Included, among other items, is a list of jewelry and clothing that Frances Fairchild Bryant (1797-1866) planned to give her daughter, Frances Bryant Godwin (1822-1893); a poem written by Bryant's brother, John Howard Bryant (1807-1902); a 1794 diary by Bryant's mother, Sarah Snell Packard Bryant (1768-1847) that records the birth of Bryant; A.C. Clark's builder's book regarding renovations to the Bryant Homestead in 1865; and a record of temperatures from 1884 to 1916 at the Bryant Homestead kept by Minna Godwin Goddard (1846-1927) and her husband, Frederic Norton Goddard (1831-1912).

Series III, Photographs, Copper Plates, & Artwork, is organized into three subseries: Photographs, Artwork, and Copper Plates.

The first subseries, Photographs, is organized into People, Places and Albums. People contains three postcard pictures of William Cullen Bryant, one probably from the 1890s and the other two from 1910, along with a photograph of Bryant, probably from the 1870s, printed on cloth. There is an 1892 photograph of a pastel portrait of Bryant's daughter, Frances Bryant Godwin (1822-1893) and a studio portrait of his daughter, Julia Sands Bryant (1831-1907), sometime in the 1890s. There is a studio portrait of English author Martin Farquhar Tupper (1810-1889), which Tupper inscribed to Bryant; and a photograph of an unidentified woman, probably from the 1890s.

Places contains photographs of the Bryant Homestead (house and grounds), from the 1870s to the early 1900s; multiple postcards of the Homestead and other locations in Cummington from the early 1900s; a photograph from the early 1900s of the building where Bryant wrote "Thanatopsis"; and two images from the early 1900s (one photograph and one postcard) of the monument marking Bryant's birthplace. There are also photographs of Cedarmere, Bryant's house in Roslyn, New York and photographs of Snell Farm in Cummington, Massachusetts.

Albums consist of six albums of Carte de Visite photographs. A detailed inventory of these images is available by contacting the archivist at The Trustees of Reservations' Archives and Research Center.

The second subseries, Artwork is organized into Sketches and Engravings. Sketches, include sketches created by Bryant, a pencil sketch made by Bryant of a tree, probably in the 1830s; and an engraving by John Cheney (1801-1885) of Seth Wells Cheney (1810-1856)'s portrait of William Cullen Bryant. Engraving Include engravings of William Cullen Bryant.

The third subseries, Copper Plates, contains eight copper plates from a book that was published after the 1894 celebration of the centennial of Bryant's birth. The book is Bryant Centennial, Cummington: August the Sixteenth 1894 (Springfield, MA: Clark W. Bryan Co., printer, [1894]). From Bryant Centennial, Cummington: August the Sixteenth 1894.
